The making of
DSO's scientists and engineers

“ The Singapore Armed Forces needs systems with a technology edge. This is an edge they could not otherwise have, if they were to just buy equipment. And this is what DSO can offer. ”

Mr Teo Chee Hean
Minister for Defence

They are intelligent, ambitious and fearless. Determined to make a difference, these are DSO's scientists and engineers.

As Singapore's national research and development (R&D) organisation, it takes a special breed of people with passion to succeed in our core mission. With an unceasing quest for knowledge and innovation, they defy the seemingly impossible to develop technological surprises to sharpen the cutting edge of Singapore's national security.
